

Jacqueline Gaim Marsoner International Officer

Term 2 2018 (January)

What I've done

In January I organised an 'International Connections' meet-up, the specific aim was to invite first year international students to a small informal welcome back event which was an idea that was carried out with advice from Isabel Noon from the languages department. The purpose was to firstly, speak to any international students that had any concerns or just wanted someone to talk to and secondly, help build up the international community on campus. The meet-up took place on the 1st of February and I was able to use the FXU media as well as contact to the International Society to promote the event.

What I'm doing

I am currently in the process of signing up for the annual NUS International Students' Conference where I will be a delegate. There will be an important vote in which the new NUS International Students' Officer will be voted in and where important issues will be discussed. If you have anything you would like me to bring up or raise at the conference, please let me know.
